This TIP Document IPR Policy (“Policy”) supplements the TIP IPR Policy.

From time-to-time TIP through its Project Groups, Committees including the Technical Committee, or its Board of Directors may develop and/or publish documents which are not Specifications or Software under the TIP IPR Policy. Such documents may be of a technical nature such as architecture frameworks, white papers, use cases, implementation guidelines, and software documentation. Other documents may be primarily non-technical in nature including promotional, educational, and other informational materials. Neither the TIP IPR Policy nor the TIP Bylaws cover IPR obligations for TIP’s draft or final documents.

Such Contribution may be in written or electronic form and may represent modifications to an existing Document. Each Contributor hereby grants a royalty-free, fully paid-up, worldwide license under its intellectual and proprietary rights in its Contribution to copy, modify, distribute, display, and otherwise use the Contribution solely to enable TIP, its Project Groups, its Committees, or its Board of Directors, as may be applicable, to develop the Document, solely for the period from the time of Contribution until either (a) the applicable Document has been approved for Release or (b) work on the Document has ceased for a period of 12 months during which no material

Subject to Section 3.0, each Contributor hereby agrees that its Included Contributions are not Confidential Information.

5.0 Limited Copyright Assignment. Except for any Third Party IP incorporated in its Included Contribution, each Contributor agrees to assign to TIP a joint and undivided copyright interest in its Included Contribution solely to the extent that such assignment is required by TIP to enforce the TIP Document License with regard to unauthorized use of the Document, and TIP will not exercise its rights in such assigned copyright interests in the Included Contribution except for the sole purpose of pursuing the relevant enforcement activities. Neither TIP nor any Contributor shall have any duty to account or seek permission from any other party in order to exploit the assigned Included Contribution. Each Contributor agrees to reasonably cooperate with TIP to perfect the foregoing assignment upon TIP’s written request, provided that TIP reimburses such Contributor for reasonable expenses required to perfect such assignment.

6.0 Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each Contributor shall use its reasonable endeavors to identify Third Party IP that is applicable to its Contributions, and hereby represents and warrants that it will not submit any Contribution that, to its knowledge, includes Third Party IP unless the Third Party IP is clearly identified in writing along with the Contribution.

(b) Each Contributor hereby represents and warrants that it has complied with all Third Party IP licenses and agreements that, to its knowledge, is applicable to its Contributions.
