This letter confirms that courses offered in partnership with EF Education First are specifically designed for undergraduate learners. The courses use innovative, experiential learning to help students reflect on their cultural exploration, apply key insights, and develop global competencies. They also support students in discovering personal goals, building confidence, and gaining the academic and social experiences needed for future success.

EF Education First courses taken for credit with Southern New Hampshire University (SNHU), which is accredited by the New England Commission for Higher Education, are transcribed as undergraduate courses and are critically evaluated by the University during an academic review process ensuring academic quality standards are met.

Courses offered in partnership with EF Education First are housed internally in our course catalog, but are not externally facing to the public, per University policy and procedures. Course completion is documented with a letter grade on an official University transcript. Uses or transfer of undergraduate credit is always decided upon by the receiving institution.

I hope that this information has been helpful. If you need additional information or have any questions, please do not hesitate to reach out.

Sincerely,
