THE GRAND CANYON

It's easy to think of the Grand Canyon in numbers: 277 miles long, up to 18 miles wide, as much as a mile deep. But once you're there, you'll see that numbers can't describe the seemingly never-ending view. Or the canyon's gradient rock walls, which serve as a natural timeline. Or the Colorado River, a winding streak of deep blue between red rock formations. As you hike along the rim trails of this iconic national site, you'll understand why that it's one thing to know the canyon's dimensions and it's another to behold them.

BRYCE CANYON

Bryce Canyon has remarkable crimson-colored hoodoos, or spire-shaped rock formations that tower up from the bottom of the canyon like an army of guards. Take in the incredible geography of this national park as you hike through the alpine environment and seek out the bristlecone pines that reside here—some of the oldest trees in the world.
