

Gliffy vs. draw.io

Gliffy and draw.io are two of the most popular diagramming tools on the Atlassian Marketplace. What makes Gliffy stand out?

Built for Confluence

Our team is focused on one thing only: delivering powerful, intuitive diagramming for Confluence. By visualizing complex processes and structures directly in Confluence with no extra logins, windows, or connectors, teams can save time, enhance clarity, and eliminate bottlenecks.

No Training Required

Recognized as the easiest-to-use diagramming solution by users on G2, Gliffy generates high user adoption with in-app onboarding guides, helpful tooltips, and an intuitive interface. These features minimize the need for extensive training and enable users to quickly grasp the tool. The result? Greater efficiency, no wasted resources, and clearer communication across your organization.

Enterprise Security & Compliance

Gliffy provides the service and functionality that enterprise teams need, shown in our average install size, which is 3 times larger than draw.io's. Gliffy was one of the first apps to achieve Atlassian's Cloud Fortified designation when the program was introduced, and our Cloud apps have also received SOC 2 Type II certification, demonstrating our ability to meet enterprise-level standards for reliability, support, and security.

Advanced Technical Features

Gliffy is committed to developing features that empower teams to communicate complex information easily and efficiently. From our emphasis on an intuitive code-based diagramming experience to our AI-powered text to diagram functionality, every new feature we bring to Gliffy is intended to help technical users save time while building valuable resources for their teams.

Award-Winning Support

Our award-winning support team is dedicated to assisting technical teams and Atlassian partners whenever issues may arise. Unlike other diagramming tools, we focus solely on providing exceptional support, never pushing unnecessary upselling. With Gliffy, you get a secure, reliable solution with a team that truly has your back.
