Strategic Funding Analysis

Our team provides strategic funding analysis services to help clients save time by focusing only on programs that best match their business growth needs and qualifications. Our grants discovery, matching, and qualification process ensures that business projects meet the requirements and mandates of active and available funding programs.

Consulting Services

We offer tailored consulting services to help clients leverage government funding programs for a variety of business investments and initiatives. We provide clients with strategic guidance and support throughout the government funding process from early consultancy support, including initial conversations with government funding agencies, to due diligence and compliance.

Grant Writing Expertise

Our team provides funding application writing services to increase the chances of success for clients. Our efficient allocation of resources supports the writing and administrative components of the process, thus ensuring that clients are not overburdened by the process.

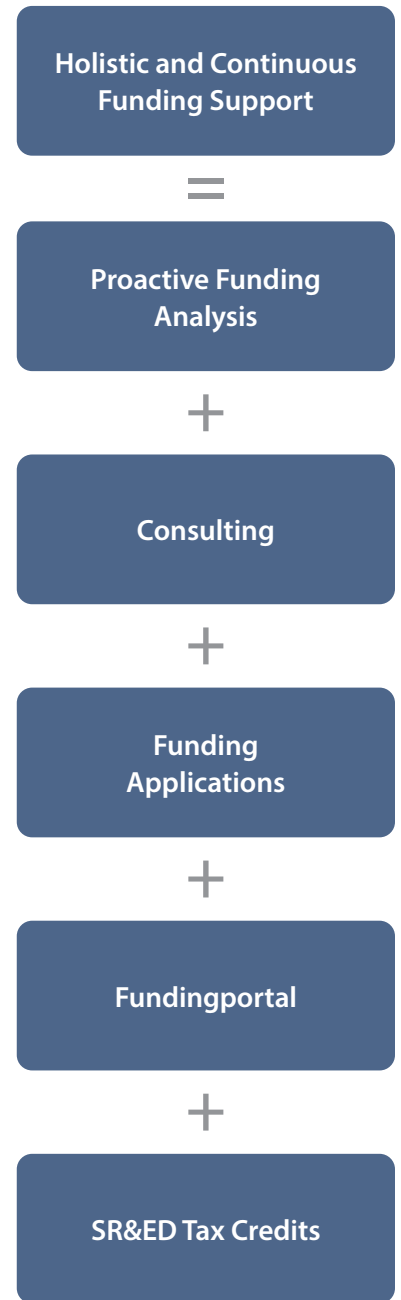

Fundingportal Solutions

The Fundingportal tool leverages AI to identify and match businesses to grants and incentives programs available across North America. Businesses can subscribe to receive timely information on up to 20 funding programs through FundingIQ Reports, complete with a competitive analysis. Fundingportal's suite of solutions empowers businesses with 12 tools to manage grants, credits, and incentives across North America. Connect with funders directly or request end-to-end application management services from our specialists.

Retroactive R&D Tax Credits

The Scientific Research and Experimental Development (SR&ED) tax credit is the largest single source of Canadian federal government support that incentivizes business-led R&D projects, providing more than $3 billion in tax incentives to more than 20,000 claimants annually. Our team has vast expertise in all fields of science and finance. We prepare all SR&ED documentation, which alleviates the time pressures on your internal resources and allows you to focus on your core business.
