David Phoenix is a celebrated and influential Los Angeles designer known for thoughtful, modern luxury and livability. With a quintessential American point of view, David finds inspiration from a myriad of styles, looking back through history as he creates spaces for today.

Well-Suited is inspired by men's haberdashery using traditional elements and details. The collection has a balanced mix of grand and small-scale patterns, checks, stripes, and solid textures, brought to life through a harmonizing color palette.

"I like to return to a time when luxurious living and smart styling were common components of our lives."
